THE PULSE OF WORLD LITERATURE
About JLF@BOULDER

The Jaipur Literature Festival travels to Boulder, Colorado with a creative caravan of writers and thinkers, poets and balladeers. Showcasing South Asia’s unique and multilingual literary heritage and juxtaposing oral and performing arts, books and ideas, dialogue and debate, this magical mystery tour is an intense two-day teaser of what has been declared “the greatest literary show on earth.”

The story of the Jaipur Literature Festival has many dimensions of magic. An annual event which has become a literary pilgrimage, it has transformed the way South Asian writing views itself and its place in the world. The festival believes in the human imagination, beyond borders and boundaries, nations and ideologies.

We at JLF are looking forward to a stimulating and inspirational edition in beautiful Boulder, Colorado.

We are each other’s stories. Across languages and cultures, the pulse of world literature connects our common human narrative. As the spreading banyan tree of our festival finds root and sustenance in the exhilarating environs of Boulder, we bring together sessions that invoke the special ‘spirit of Jaipur’, which is spontaneous yet rigorous, joyous yet interrogative. A series of sessions, which are both rooted and cosmopolitan, bring alive a diversity of subjects and voices ranging from the environment to personal identity, from the politics of conflict to matters of faith. Celebrating books and ideas, music and poetry, culture and connectivity, the festival takes you on a unique journey of the mind and spirit. From the ‘Steps’ to the ‘Brook’ to ‘Skyscapes’ and the Canyon Theatre, the streaming imagination and creative process will illuminate our collective consciousness.

Jaipur Literature Festival is a unique celebration of writing that has grown into something bigger and more wonderful to anything we could have ever hoped when we first conceived this festival a decade ago. From only 14 guests turning up in 2005, most of whom were tourists who took the wrong turn, in 2006 we had a big enough crowd nearly to fill the Diggi Durbar Hall. About four hundred people came in 2007. This year, we had more than a quarter of a million footfalls, and the success of Jaipur has inspired a whole galaxy of nearly sixty other literary festivals, not only in India but in Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Bhutan, Nepal and now Burma. We are as surprised as we are proud of this. All events are completely free; there are no reserved spaces for grandees; our authors mingle with the crowds and eat with them on a first-come, first-served basis. People also know that when they come here they will have a lot of fun. As Time Out put it nicely last year: "It's settled. The Jaipur Literature Festival is officially the Woodstock, Live 8 and Ibiza of world literature, with an ambience that can best be described as James Joyce meets Monsoon Wedding." But the scale, and reach of the festival is something that still takes us all aback. When we ask an author to come to Jaipur, they very rarely say no, and this year we were proud to present a Nobel Laureate, as well as a galaxy of Booker, Pulitzer and Commonwealth nominees. Jaipur has now become synonymous with the greatest writers on the planet.

For the first time, we present at Boulder a mini taster platter — a sort of pocket-sized Jaipur transplanted from the Aravallis to the Rockies. We can’t wait to show the United States a little taster of the energy and colourful literary brilliance which has made Jaipur the most happening literary festival in the world.
In today’s polarized world, it is imperative that we view the arts as a window to varied cultures and philosophies. Art and literature are not bound by political boundaries—they have a universality that allows the reader to absorb an idea, explore its differences and appreciate its inherent diversity. In setting down our roots in the charming city of Boulder, our efforts will be to create an inclusive platform for an exchange of ideas, knowledge, traditional wisdom and explore the frontiers that only the human mind is able to conjure up with such brilliance!

In bringing together East and West, our effort will be to highlight the differences and celebrate the similarities, to engender empathy and acknowledge the very essence of the freedom to express. Authors do not necessarily write to entertain or amuse, they write because they have a volition to do so by conjuring up images and ideas for us to debate and discuss, agree and disagree.

The rollercoaster ride over the past 18 months has been exhilarating, with its many ups and downs, and more so in the company of the three musketeers Jessie, Jules and Maruta, who dreamt the impossible dream of bringing JLF to Boulder and worked relentlessly towards making it a reality. My deepest appreciation to the City of Boulder and our wonderful supporters, advisors and sponsors who embraced the idea of setting in motion a festival that will forge ahead on issues important to its inhabitants and relevant to the world.

I hope you enjoy the festival as much as we have enjoyed putting it together.

Executive Director & Advisor

A festival of literature from all over the world, JLF@Boulder, promises to be an event unlike any other. Free and accessible to everyone, rich with words and ideas, the festival invites us to come together in examining the human experience through the reflections and imaginations of distinguished contemporary authors from around the world. In an uplifting celebration of the mind and heart, authors from the Americas, Asia, Africa and Europe engage in provocative conversations about life and society, economics and the arts, equity, freedom and the care of our planet. In our critical times, the penetrating, intercultural dialogue exchanged at this festival of ideas speaks deeply to individuals and gives rise to the joy of community.

Join us in Boulder to taste the beauty of our common humanity reflected in the beauty of Colorado! Beautiful Boulder, is known for its 300 days of sunshine a year and its highly educated, professional population of more than 100,000; for its deep interest and leadership in social, technical, and environmental innovation; for yoga and mindfulness practices, cycling, fitness, natural health and healing.

Festival Program

1. The Poetic Imagination
Arvind Krishna Mehrotra, Eleni Sikelianos, Ruth Ellen Kocher and Vijay Seshadri, moderated by Joseph Hutchison

In a session of readings and conversations, four distinct talents investigate the sources, inspirations, contexts and philosophies of the poetic imagination.

Sponsored by the Colorado Office of Economic Development and International Trade

2. The Moor’s Account
Laila Lalami in conversation with Jennifer Heath

In 1527, Panfilo de Narvaez sailed to Florida, with the goal of claiming it for the Spanish Crown. Giving voice to the silences in history, Laila Lalami takes on the narrative perspective of the slave Estevanico, who was a member of this ill-fated expedition. Her recent novel The Moor’s Account was a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize and tells of the early encounters between Spanish conquistadors and Native Americans. In readings and conversation with author, editor and curator Jennifer Heath, Laila Lalami discusses the subtext of this important and moving book.

3. Against the Grain: In the Times of Groupspeak
Margo Jefferson, Adrian Molina and Ryan Gattis, moderated by David Barsamian

It takes both courage and conviction to go against the grain and adopt contrarian positions in the face of social pressures and mass opinion. A panel of very different voices examines strategies of steadfast truth telling. Together, they discuss their experiences of swimming against the tide of prejudice and popular perception.

4. In Search of Sita: The Indian Woman in Myth and Memory
Namita Gokhale and Arshia Sattar in conversation
(Screening of a short film on Sita)

The complex social, political and religious attitudes of ‘modern’ India cannot be understood without an understanding of its myths and their impact on the collective faith of the people. Examining contemporary Indian women through the lens and perspectives of the goddess Sita, from the Indian epic of the Ramayana, the session revisits myth, memory and culture to interpret current Indian feminisms.

5. Twilight Zones
Kai Bird, Simon Sebag Montefiore and William Dalrymple, moderated by Nur Iliaq

The Middle East is engulfed by contradictions, propelled by territorial and ideological imperatives locked in seemingly irreconcilable conflict. The panelists examine the impasse through the lens of morality and strategy, cynicism and pragmatism, history and realpolitik, hope and aspiration.

6. Word And Number: Can The Twain Ever Meet?
Manil Suri in conversation with Casey Schwartz

Novelist and mathematician Manil Suri speaks with writer and journalist Casey Schwartz of the different ways literature and mathematics help us understand the world. Beyond all the stereotypes of insularity in mathematics and math phobia in the humanities, is there any hope of synthesis between the two? Through a combination of fiction, live theater and video animation, this session will attempt to demonstrate that the answer is yes.

7. Skin Deep
Mira Jacob and Margo Jefferson, moderated by Nayana Currimbhoy

Race, history and memory, as well as melanin content and the color of one’s skin, impact identity in both obvious and subtle ways. A session that examines the politics of privilege and marginalization across a spectrum of mixed and morphing experiences of selfhood.
Telling Stories: Engaging with the World in the Music of Speaking

Laura Simms

The stories that we tell define our lives. If you love lyrics, spoken word, rap and poetry you will love the secrets of what make a story. And how to incorporate it in whatever style you love. We will listen to a mythic tale and in response go through a step by step creative process to each create a story. Spoken word is a special dynamic literary form. It is TODAY. It is far more than adding voice to written or memorized text. The engagement of storytelling is an ancient form of spontaneous poetry.

In this workshop we will create a personal mythic tale and explore ways to tell that story so that language comes alive between listener and teller.

If you need to improve your spoken word performance, writing, get clues about what really matters in your life or prepare a personal presentation of any sort, the story that we each generate can be used in performance or in spoken presentation.

8. Seasons of Flight

Anchee Min, MAINAA Singh and Prajal Parajuly in conversation with Manjushree Thapa

Like birds, the human species too spreads its wings in search of adventure and sustenance. Immigrants and emigrants, settlers and colonists, refugees and nomads chart new languages and societies and re-navigate their personal and cultural narratives. In a session that soars across continents and civilizations, speakers map their diasporic journeys of the mind and the spirit.

9. First Draft: Between Fact and Fiction

Antonio Ruiz-Camacho, Amitava Kumar and Marie Brenner, moderated by Jan Ellison

How do writers publishing across genres walk the delicate line between the management of narrative and its invention? How do they resist twisting the truth in their personal narratives, and sharing too much of it in their fiction? All three writers on this panel have written extensively across genres, publishing novels, short stories, investigative journalism, memoirs, personal essays and biographies.

10. Mad About Books

Hannah Nordhaus, Jason Grunebaum, DW Gibson and Ami Dayan

Writers on their favorite books and authors – Hannah Nordhaus, Jason Grunebaum, DW Gibson, Ami Dayan on the characters that have stayed with them, the stories that they return to over and over again and the perennials on their bookshelves.

11. The Spoken Word: Celebrating Oral Literatures

Christi Merrill, Linda Hess, Marcia Douglas, Laura Simms and Vikram Chandra, moderated by Claudia Cragg

Orality and spoken language is the intangible essence of a living community. A distinguished panel of writers, translators and scholars discuss the legacy of oral literatures from different traditions and strategies of understanding, archiving and transmitting the fluidity and spontaneity of the living word.

12. Rewilding Our Heart

Marc Bekoff, Hannah Nordhaus and Linda Hogan, moderated by Julene Bair

In wildlife conservation, ‘rewilding’ refers to restoring habitats and creating and connecting corridors between preserved lands. In this important session, writers, experts and activists reach out to rewilding attitudes and to dissolving false boundaries between human life and the nurturing forces of nature.

A session of ideas and critiques, poetry and prose readings emphasizing individual belief and conviction.

The Cave of Co-Creation

Puneeta Roy | Suggested age group 10 - 16

Discover a magical space where anything and everything is possible. It all lies in the power of positive thought, of knowing you CAN!

A fun way to connect with your Inner core and help manifest your dreams using the tools of co-creation through theatre, art and creative visualization!

Dream it. Believe in it. Energize it.
14. Cities and their Shadows

DW Gibson, Esther David, Ryan Gattis and William Dalymphie in conversation with Amitava Kumar

Chronicling a city involves a complex archaeology of its mind, heart and soul. From Patna to New Delhi, NYC and Los Angeles to Ahmedabad, this session transports us to the inner lives of cities ancient and modern. Amitava Kumar’s A Matter of Rats calls itself a short biography of Patna, in Bihar, India. DW Gibson’s The Edge Becomes The Center is a groundbreaking oral history of New York and the process of urban change. William Dalymphie’s maturely travelogue City of Djinns looks at history and spirituality of New Delhi after living there for six years. Esther David invokes the walled city of Ahmedabad and her documentation of Jewish identity in India. Ryan Gattis undertook years of extensive research for his book All Involved: A Novel of the LA Riots, one of the worst civic disturbances in the history of the United States.

15. The Spell of the Sea, the Lure of the Land

Aaron Hirsh, Peter Heller and Patricia Limerick, moderated by Marc Bekoff

The session takes us on a reflective journey towards understanding our relationship with nature and with each other.

16. Vijay Dandetha: The Shakespeare of Rajasthan

Christi Merrill and Uday Prakash in conversation

(Screening of a short film by Uday Prakash)

Born in the desert state of Rajasthan, India, the legendary Vijay Dandetha brought alive the vibrant oral and performing traditions, the folktales, epics and ballads which are the cultural legacy of the region. His interpretations and translations of these age-old mesmeric tales blur the lines between ancient and modern, rural and urban, to reach out to the essential human condition.

17. Red Azalea

Anchee Min introduced by Rahul Jacob

Chinese-American writer Anchee Min was born in a staunchly Maoist family in 1950s Shanghai and forced to work on a communal farm from the age of seventeen. She talks about her compelling memoir, which documents her isolation and illicit love against the backdrop of China’s Cultural Revolution. From her coming of age in the Red Guard to her recruitment into Madame Mao’s burgeoning industry of propaganda movies, Anchee Min explores the secret sensuality of a repressive society with elegance and honesty.

18. Barn Owl’s Wondrous Capers

Sarnath Banerjee and Mario Acevedo in conversation with Maeve Conran

Using words, music and magic, graphic novelist Sarnath Banerjee and author Mario Acevedo explore the subversive terrain of satire and the interstices of word, image and text.

19. In the Mindfields

Casey Schwartz in conversation with Julie Colwell

Neuroscience and psychoanalysis are historically opposed disciplines in their approaches to understanding human behavior and consciousness. In the Mindfields explores the relationship between brain and mind and the spaces and unanswered questions in between.

Simon Sebag Montefiore, Jung Chang and Vikram Chandra, moderated by Rahul Jacob

The trials, tribulations and inspirations that constitute the texture of a writer’s life, in its quest for truth and verisimilitude and beauty.
23. Twice Told Texts: The Inner Life of Translations

Sunday Sept. 20, 10:45am - 11:30am

Steps

Antonio Ruiz-Camacho, Arvind Krishna Mehrotra, Christi Merrill and Linda Hess, moderated by Arshia Sattar

Author Antonio Ruiz-Camacho, writer and translator Arshia Sattar, poet, translator and anthologist Arvind Krishna Mehrotra, scholar and translator Christi Merrill and writer Linda Hess speak of the intangibles of translation, the silences between languages and the word made flesh.

Sunday Sept. 20, 11:45am - 12:30pm

Skylscapes

Bob Shacochis and Rahul Jacob in conversation

Bob Shacochis quotes Jim Harrison to opine ‘there are no old myths, only new people.’ As the context and platform for news writing morphs and mutates with technology and generational change, Shacochis explores the fault lines between the personal and the political and the tensions between truth and opinion with journalist and author Rahul Jacob. They speak, among other things, of ‘the literature of political experience,’ ‘the literature of domestic experience’ and the ways in which economic, political and societal factors influence and prejudice human interactions.

25. Matters of Faith

Sunday Sept. 20, 11:45am - 12:30pm

Canyon Theatre

Anosh Irani, Brian Ativars Catlos, Esther David and Kalyan Ray, moderated by Arshia Sattar

Writers from across faiths discuss the impact of religious identity and upbringing on their creative and literary selves. Catlos writes of religious extremism and theological disputes during the crusades in his work, Infidel Kings and Unholy Warriors. Esther David belongs to the Jewish-Indian community and has written on the Jewish experience in India. Kalyan Ray is the author of No Country, a novel concerned with identity, hybridity and migration and spans centuries, geographies and cultures. They speak of the narrative impulse and the forces that fuel their fiction.

26. Murder She Wrote: The Discreet Charm of the Whodunnit

Sunday Sept. 20, 11:45am - 12:30pm

Steps

Ausma Zehanat Khan in conversation with Nayana Currimbhoy

Crime fiction carries a range of associated concerns within its page-turning compulsions. Ethics and accountability, social hierarchies and justice, gender and indeed the question of mortality, are all addressed within the genre. A session on reading, writing, and deconstructing the method and madness in the conventions of mystery.

27. Jerusalem

Sunday Sept. 20, 12:45pm - 1:30pm

Skylscapes

Brian Ativars Catlos, Simon Sebag Montefiore and Esther David, moderated by Sanjoy Roy

Jerusalem is the center of faith for Judaism, Christianity and Islam. A session on the Holy City, the ‘center of the world’ and now the key to peace in the Middle East. Simon Sebag Montefiore is a historian and novelist and the award winning author of Jerusalem: The Biography.

28. Gods without Men: Narrating the Human Condition

Saturday Sept. 19, 11:45am - 1:30pm

Brook

Hari Kunzru, Vikram Chandra and Kalyan Ray in conversation with Nayana Currimbhoy

Acclaimed British-Indian novelist Hari Kunzru is the author of the novels, The Impressionist, Transmission, My Revolutions and Gods Without Men. Writer Vikram Chandra is an iconic Indian-American writer who divides his time between Mumbai and California. His books include Love and Longing in Bombay and Sacred Games. Kalyan Ray is the author of No Country, an inter-generational novel spread across several continents concerned with identity, hybridity and migration and spans centuries, geographies and cultures. They speak of the narrative impulse and the forces that fuel their fiction.
recently particularly vulnerable to earthquakes and natural disasters. The resilience and courage of the Nepalese people in the face of poverty and political instability and the grit determination and success of its far-flung diaspora bring the spirit of 'Hamro Nepal' alive.

32. Raising the Spirits
Debra Magpie Earling, Elizabeth Fenn, Lisa Jones and Linda Hogan, moderated by Marcia Douglas

Poetry can be an ecstatic out-of-body experience. Soul searching journeys and celebration of a deep and pervasive animism have the capacity to transform the nature of literary experience. Four acclaimed writers and poets discuss the distinctive Native American traditions with empathy and understanding, interpreting the American past from diverse perspectives including archaeology, anthropology, autobiographical narration, feminism and environmental issues.

30. The Making of Modern China: Empress Dowager Cixi
Jung Chang introduced by Marie Brenner

The Empress Dowager Cixi is the subject of a recent and acclaimed biography by the celebrated Jung Chang. The session examines the enigmatic, fascinating and formidable figure who "brought Medieval China into the modern age." Returning to legend and history, Jung Chang brings to life the brilliant strategist and tactician who rose from concubine and imperial consort to become the absolute ruler of a third of the world's population for nearly 50 years.

Beneath a Story, Lies Another
Sarnath Banerjee

An interactive workshop where the participants bring in with them a little story of Boulder, a personal incident, a slice of life, a news report, a bit of local history or nature and create that into a pictorial story. In the process participants look at the methods and processes that are involved in producing a visual narrative.

31. Geographical Imaginations
Antonio Ruiz-Camacho, Hari Kunzru, Ausma Zehanat Khan and Vijay Seshadri in conversation with Rashna Singh

Evening Music

George Brooks
George Brooks, a Berkeley saxophonist who has spent much of his adult life immersing himself in Indian music and collaborating with its greatest practitioners, has organized a concert showcasing some of the world’s finest musical talent. Two of India’s great musical lineages will be represented - the Carnatic stream by leading percussionist, V. Selvaganesh, and the Hindusthani tradition by virtuoso violinist and vocalist Kala Ramnath. An additional global perspective will come from the outstanding Egyptian pianist, Osam Ezzeldin.

V. Selvaganesh is a percussionist who gained fame in the West through his work with Zakir Hussain and John McLaughlin’s blazing band Remember Shakti. He is the son of legendary ghatam wizard Vikku Vinyakram.

Keyboardist Osam Ezzeldin’s acute rhythmic understanding and virtuosic technique has made him an invaluable asset to master drummers Zakir Hussain, Dave Weckl, Billy Cobham and Giovanni Hidalgo.

Kala Ramnath is considered the leading Hindustani violinist of the present generation. An outstanding classical soloist, Kaia has performed in major concert halls throughout the world including Carnegie Hall, London’s Southbank Center, Sydney Opera House, Theatre du Ville, Troppen Theatre and the Palais des Beaux Arts in Europe.

George Brooks is a prolific and diverse saxophonist and composer, acclaimed for successfully bridging the worlds of jazz and Indian classical music. He is the founder of several important Indian fusion groups including Summit with Zakir Hussain and Steve Smith, Bombay Jazz with Larry Coryell and Ronu Majumdar and the Raga Bap Trio with Steve Smith and south Indian guitarist Prasanna.
About the artists

Bhajju Shyam
(1st Prize)

Bhajju is a well known Gond artist, having exhibited his work at the Museum of London and on tour in the UK, Germany, Holland, Italy and Russia. Born in 1971 in the Gond tribal village of Patangarh, sixteen year-old Bhajju travelled to Bhopal where he became apprentice to Jangarh Singh Shyam.

Venkat Raman Singh Shyam

Venkat Raman Singh Shyam was born in 1970 to a humble family of Pardhan Gond tribals living in the village Sijhora, in eastern Madhya Pradesh. He began painting at the age of ten, and in 1988 moved to the city of Bhopal — where he worked for five years as an apprentice to his uncle, the master artist Jangarh Singh Shyam (1960-2001), who initiated the contemporary Gond art movement.

He has received numerous awards nationally and internationally. His works are a part of many collections worldwide, some of the institutional collectors are : LACMA, Los Angeles, USA; Chatrapati Shivaji Museum, Mumbai; Chitra Kala Parishad, Bangalore; Reserve Bank of India, Mumbai and Bharat Bhavan, Bhopal.

Roshni Vyam
(Special Prize)

Roshni Vyam was born in 1994 to Gond artists. She grew up observing her parents and at a very young age knew that art was her calling. Growing up she took part in workshops and also illustrated books. For her undergraduate studies she secured admission in the art department of the coveted M.S. University, Baroda. Here she found the curriculum to be very regimented and westernized and thought she will get disconnected from her Gond roots, and decided to not join the art school. Roshni continued her practice and decided to pursue textile designing at NIFT, Bengaluru where she is encouraged to imbibe her traditional art in current fashion and is expected to graduate in 2016.

The Gonds paint their walls with vibrant depictions of local flora, fauna and gods and goddesses. The artists use natural colors derived from charcoal, colored soil, plant sap, leaves, and cow dung. This mystical art form is created by putting together dots and lines. Now, they are translating their ideas on paper and canvas. The imaginative use of the line imparts a sense of movement to the still images. The paintings are an offering in worship of nature, and are also a mode of seeking protection and warding off evil. The work of Gond artists is rooted in their folk tales and culture, and thus story-telling is a strong element of every painting. However every artist today has a personal style and has developed a specific language within these narratives creating a richness of traditional forms and styles.
Start in 2006 with only 18 authors, in just eight years, the ZEE Jaipur Literature Festival has become one of the largest and greatest festivals in the world, with over 200,000 visitors each year. The festival has seen the participation of writers and speakers including Salman Rushdie, Oprah Winfrey, Vikram Seth, Jhumpa Lahiri, Tash Aw, Taiye Selasi, Reza Aslan, Orhan Pamuk, Jonathan Franzen and JM Coetzee.

Two years ago, the ZEE Jaipur Literature Festival began an important new initiative: Jaipur BookMark (JBM). Conceptualized as a business to business segment, JBM is held in parallel with the ZEE Jaipur Literature Festival, in a quiet nearby venue and provides a platform for publishers, literary agents, authors, translation agencies and writers to meet, talk business deals, listen to speakers from across the world and perhaps even sign the occasional contract.

The second edition of JBM built on the first and brought together complex and enriching discussions on ever-important theme, content, as well as digitization, the importance of libraries, the question of business mergers, the synergy between books and films and much more. JBM 2016 will continue these discussions and also bring in an important new focus: translations and rights.

With its wealth of literatures in over 23 languages, India offers a rich landscape of writing. JBM is well placed to showcase the best of such writing and to help facilitate the sale and exchange of rights both between Indian languages and internationally. JBM 2016 will feature a catalogue of a select list of works offered for translation, samples of translations for publishers and agents to get a feel of the work, discussions on rights sales and contracts for print, digital and film. Currently, no other publishing platform in India offers the possibility of both getting to know India’s varied literatures and making contact with publishers and authors from those languages.

If you’re a publisher or an agent - whether Indian or international - in search of new authors, new subjects, new languages, new countries, new literatures - you can’t afford to miss Jaipur BookMark 2016.

The arts of India are unrivaled in their depth, diversity and mystery. Showcasing work for diverse audiences requires a deep understanding of our arts, an acute sense of relevance in programming and an unflinching attention to organizational detail. Above all, we at Teamwork believe in respect and love for the artist.

For 25 years, Teamwork has presented the finest of Indian writers, artists and performers to our nation and to the world.

In countries such as Australia, Canada, Egypt, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Italy, Israel, Singapore, South Africa, Spain and the USA, Teamwork produces over 21 highly acclaimed performing arts, visual arts and literary festivals.

A distinctly versatile entertainment company, Teamwork has roots in the performing arts, social movement, and the corporate world. The company’s expertise lies in the areas of entertainment such as television, film - documentary and feature, and the creation and development of contemporary performing arts, visual arts and literary festivals across the world. We strongly believe in nurturing new talent across all art forms.

Among the many annual festivals we produce is the Jaipur Literature Festival, which is Asia’s biggest literary gathering, as well as Eye on India, an festival bringing the best of traditional and contemporary Indian art, literature and culture to local audiences in the United States.
